Va. Same-Sex Marriage Ban Struck Down

Staff and wire reports

RICHMOND — A federal appeals court ruled Monday that Virginia's same-sex marriage ban is unconstitutional, the latest in a string of decisions overturning bans across the country.

A three-judge panel of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond ruled that state constitutional and statutory provisions barring gay marriage and denying recognition of such unions performed in other states violate the U.S. Constitution. The Virginia gay marriage case is one of several that could go to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Chaz Evans-Haywood, clerk of the Rockingham County Circuit Court, said he's in the wait-and-see mode.

"We follow what the law states," he said. "If a change occurs, that's when the process would be required to change in this office."

If changed, the law would require his office to issue marriage licenses to same-sex couples, but wouldn't require his office to

HARRISONBURG — The Shenandoah Valley was devastated by war in the 1860s.

But over the years, its significance in the Civil War has drawn tourists to the region — especially during the commemoration of the war's sesquicentennial.

"We have, during our commemorative programs, seen a tremendous turnout for those 150th anniversary events," said Terry Heder, director of interpretation and communications at the New Market-based Shenandoah Valley Battlefields Association. "We've had sellout audiences and people coming from across the country for those programs."

or 15 different states from across the country, and we're glad to see we're having that pull. The economic impact really is magnified when [attendees are] traveling from a distance."

The spotlight the war's anniversary has cast since 2009 — the 150th anniversary of John Brown's raid on Harpers Ferry in what is now West Virginia — has boosted interest in

Wal-Mart Eyes Timberville Supercenter

South Main Rezoning Requested For 128,000-Square-Foot Store

Daily News-Record

TIMBERVILLE — Longtime rumors of Wal-Mart being interested in coming to town can be put to rest: The world's largest retailer is ready to be in Timberville.

A 128,000-square-foot supercenter is planned on 16 acres bound by South Main Street, Va. 211 and American Legion Drive, across from the town office on South Main, which is Va. 42.

Wal-Mart Stores Inc. and the property owner, Quail Lane Farm LLC, submitted a rezoning request to the town on Thursday, Town Manager Austin Garber said.

The land is zoned for residential development, and Wal-Mart needs it changed to a business classification.

The property has long been in the family of Marcus Garber, no relation to the town manager.

Austin Garber said another 20 acres on the proposed site — the land closest to Plains Elementary School — are not part of the development.

A joint public hearing between the Timberville Town Council and Planning Commission will likely be scheduled for the third
